

GOVERNMENT BUILDING TO BE AMONG THE BEST

Charleroi Edifice is to be Exceptionally Substantial

COMPLIMENT TO TOWN

In Architecture and Design
Superior to Those in Many
Larger Cities

"In quality and in design the Charleroi building will be the best government building that I have bid on for two years," said George W. Stiles of the Stiles Construction company Tuesday in speaking of the edifice upon which he is today making a start. "The building will be far above the average for towns somewhat larger than Charleroi," he stated. Mr. Stiles is an experienced government contractor and knows whereof he speaks. At the present time he has the contract for constructing five edifices similar to that here. He states that the Charleroi edifice will be costlier than government buildings usually are for towns this size.

"The Charleroi building will not, strictly speaking, be a two story structure," Mr. Stiles said. "It will contain a mezzanine floor, about which will be grouped offices. Every part of the work will be thorough."

"It is the custom now of the Treasury Department which has charge of the construction of public buildings to group a number of buildings for one architect to oversee. That isn't quite as good as having a man on the job for every one, but it is much cheaper. An architect will visit here about every two weeks."

"There will be practically no excavation for the Charleroi building, rather a fill will be necessary to raise the basement to the proper height. This work the company of course will do itself. I will be here this week and a part of next perhaps before my superintendent of construction will arrive. Part of my attention will be engaged at a building in Missouri which we started not long ago."

Mr. Stiles mentioned something about the excellent site which had been selected for the Charleroi building and compared it to others with which he had experience. He is much pleased with the building prospect here and indicated that he would like to remain himself to oversee the work.

HIGHWAY CONTRACT AWARDED

Hastings and Piper of Charleroi to Build
Local Road

MAY FINISH THIS FALL

The contract for the construction of a portion of road in State Highway route No. 118, in Charleroi borough was awarded at Harrisburg Tuesday to the contracting firm of Hastings and Piper of Charleroi. Their bid was $17,907.48. Bids were opened at the State Highway department Tuesday morning.

The Charleroi work will consist of 3,760 lineal feet of brick block paving, 16 feet wide, from the end of the paving on Lincoln avenue near First street to the Fallowfield township line not far from the garbage incinerator, and from First street on McKean avenue to Maple Creek, which divides Charleroi and Speers borough. Both sections of road are along route No. 118.

It is expected that the contractors will begin work in a short time on the construction of the two stretches of road that they may be finished this fall.

At the same time that the contract was let for the Charleroi work, the State Highway department let the contract of approximately 20 miles more of road. The contract for 1,000 highway sign posts was awarded to Calvin Gilbert, of Gettysburg.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of McKean Avenue
Have Lived Together for Fifty Years--
Were Married in Pittsburgh

"What see I now? The night is fair,
The storm of grief, the clouds of care,
The wind, the rain, have passed away;
The lamps are lit, the fires burn bright.
The house is full of life and light;
It is the Golden Wedding day."

O fortunat! O happy day!
The people sing, the people say,
The ancient bridegroom and the bride,
Smiling contented and serene
Upon the blithe bewildering scene,
Behold, well pleased, on every side,
Their forms and features multiplied
—Longfellow

With a solemn high mass at 8 o'clock at St. Jerome's church of which they are communicants, Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of 813 McKean avenue began the celebration of their Golden Wedding today—the first event of this kind, so far as known—that ever took place in Charleroi.

The service was attended by a large concourse of people, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Devlin, in addition to the children, grandchildren and relatives of the couple, who participated in the communion. The party was conveyed to the church in beautifully decorated automobiles, one of which contained the children. At the service six little girls in white, wearing floral wreaths—grandchildren—officiated as flower girls. These were headed by Misses Edna Welsh of Homestead and Francis Flood of Charleroi. Four little boys in white—also grandchildren—served as escorts. The service was most solemn and impressive, and Rev. W. D. Fries, pastor of St. Jerome's church, preached an eloquent and touching sermon upon the felicitous event.

After breaking their fast at the residence, the party repaired to Eldora Park, where the wedding breakfast proper was served. This was a most sumptuous repast, where peace, plenty and happiness were personified in the gay spirits of the company. The day is being spent in a pleasurable family reunion, and the event marks a red letter day in the annals of the Devlin family, which is represented by three generations.

Just 50 years ago this morning Mr. and Mrs. Devlin were wedded. Their troth was plighted at St. John's church on Fourteenth street on the South Side, Pittsburgh. Margaret Shadden was the maiden name of the bride. Since their wedding day the couple has only lived in three places: Pittsburgh, Allentown and Charleroi.

Mrs. Devlin, the former Miss Margaret Shadden, was born in Ayrshire Scotland, being brought to Pittsburgh when she was but a six-year old tot. Her husband was born in County Down, Ireland, but was brought to America when he was only two years old. When he was old enough he began his life work, that of a glass worker.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Devlin resided in Pittsburgh. They lived on the Southside for 25 years. Then they moved to Allentown where they made their home for about 18 years coming to Charleroi to be numbered among the pioneers of the "Maric City." Mr. Devlin secured employment at one of the glass plants when he brought his wife here 18 years ago, but he worked only two years before he was forced by failing health to give up that strenuous employment. At the present time the couple, as happy as on their wedding day, and with the same affection for each other, conduct a modest little store at 813 McKean avenue. This neat establishment is an attractive place, where children like to visit and older folks delight to stop and rest as they exchange the greetings of the day with charming Mother Devlin, who alert and up-to-date, is the gracious manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Devlin have six children living, and 21 grand children. James Devlin, the oldest son lives at Toronto, Ohio. He has six children. Margaret, now Mrs. Stephen West lives at West Homestead, having three children. Ella, known in the present day as Mrs. Joseph Flood and her eight children live in Charleroi. Mrs. James O'Hearn, known as Mary, lives next door to her parent's home and Charles and William are at home.

The group is an interesting one. Not for 12 years has there been any photograph taken of the family circle. The circle has been much enlarged since then. A picture will be taken at Eldora Park today in which it is hoped will be included every member of the family.

In addition to the sons and daughters of the worthy couple and their wives, husbands and children the company includes Mrs. Devlin's sister, Mrs. J. D. Jones of Munhall, who is the only living member of the former's family. Mrs. Jones is also represented at the gathering by three generations, her daughter, Mrs. Annie Clark of Munhall, and her daughter Stella. Others present are Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Roberts and daughter of Belle Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. John N. Jones of Homestead, who are also relatives. Mrs. Andrew N. Keifer, of Pittsburgh, a former resident of Charleroi and near neighbor of the Devlin family while living here is also present.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Devlin are in good health and spirits. Mr. Devlin is 74 years old and Mrs. Devlin is 67. Both take a lively interest in affairs, and both are highly regarded by a wide circle of friends. Coming to Charleroi in the pioneer days of the town, they are widely known and Mr. Devlin ranks as one of the substantial citizens of the town who is always depended upon to support men and measure that stand for the progressive advancement of Charleroi. In politics he is a Democrat of the old school and swears by the Pittsburgh Post, which he has taken continuously for the whole 50 years of his wedded life.

While the Golden Wedding celebration is a family affair, many outside friends are extending greetings and the whole community unites in wishing the worthy couple many more happy returns of the day.

RELIGIOUS PAPERS FORM FEATURE OF SECOND DAY'S CONVENTION SESSION

The second day's session of the South Pittsburgh district A. M. E. Sunday School association and the Allen Endeavor league was held today at St. James' A. M. E. church. This morning, James Dungee, of Washington conducted devotionary service, and reports of Endeavor leagues were heard. Miss Bertha McShaw, of Braddock gave a paper, "The Need of a League in Each Church." Miss Foster Nealey, of Donora conducted a discussion. This afternoon's session opened by devotionary services conducted by Rev. B. Wheeler. The rest of the program consists of a paper, "Opportunity and Responsibility of League Work," Miss Armetta Banks; discussion led by Miss Helen Curry, of Uniontown; a paper "Do our pastors take as great interest in our league work as they should?" F. and Carter, Monessen; discussion by William Green, West

Newton; paper, "Benefits derived from the Endeavor," Miss Bessie Robinson, of Pittsburgh; discussion led by Joseph Brooks, of West Middlebury; solo, Miss Olga Mills, Connellsville. A paper by Charles Lannon of Brownsville and one by Prof T. H. Brown of Vandergrift will feature this evening's program. Today's session is known as the Allen Endeavor League session.

Tuesday afternoon the addresses of welcome and response were given, the latter by Samuel Brooks of Washington and Rev. J. E. Morris of Braddock. Rev. R. H. Bumery of Pittsburgh made his annual address in which he outlined the work of a successful Sunday school teacher. He said they needed to be consecrated, faithful, punctual, and to have a desire for the work. Rev. F. A. Richards of the Charleroi First Methodist Episcopal church made an address as the closing feature.

ATTACK RAISES FURORE

Evangelist Burrows Uses Strong Language in Denunciation

REV. NEWELL "ROASTED"

By referring to an aged and white haired Baptist minister as a "lobster" in his denunciation of the saloon interests, Rev. E. A. Burrows, who last winter conducted a series of evangelistic services at the Charleroi Methodist Episcopal church, has raised a furore in religious circles in the Midway section of this county. Rev. Burrows is holding evangelistic meetings in that vicinity, having his big portable tabernacle along.

Tuesday night with night and vine he dug into the saloon interests. Getting worked up to a high degree of excitement he exclaimed:

"The lobster that wouldn't sign a protest was working with the saloon interests."

Almost instantly there was a hubbub. Rev. Newell, pastor of the Baptist church, it was recognized was the individual meant. A few moments before he had assisted in the opening services. He tried to arise to explain at the latter part of the service but didn't finish before many of the people left.

The trouble arose from an attempt to frame a liquor license protest last winter. Midway is a dry town. It was rumored an attempt would be made to place a saloon there. There

The caretakers are paid $50.00 per month, and will be on duty every day.

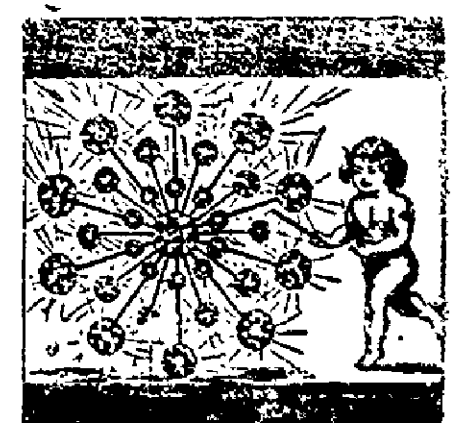

It is said upon good authority that the section of road between Crookhams and Finleyville will be contracted for this year and work on the improvement will begin at an early date. When this section is completed it will give an improved highway from Pittsburgh to Monongahela. Next year it is expected that the section between Monongahela and Lock 1, by way of Williams Hill and the Horseshoe district will be placed under contract and completed.

SAYS GAME WAS NOT FORFEITED

Manager J. K. Riekey of the Catholic team of the Church league states that the game Monday with the Lutherans was not forfeited, as stated. Ordinarily the game would be forfeited, as the Lutherans did not appear on the field with a full team in uniform, but on this occasion Manager Riekey put up the proposition that the Lutherans pick a team from wherever they pleased and that if they beat the Catholics the game would stand as a regular one, and vice versa. Under this arrangement the game was pulled off. Manager Riekey kindly loaning the Lutherans the use of two of his own players. The latter states that his team does not want any games by forfeit, but desires to contest for each and every one played.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING.

In the social life of a community parents appeal more strongly to human sympathy than a Golden Wedding. Fifty years of wedded life is no rare, that any person can count on his fingers; all that have ever come under his own personal observation.

The couple who celebrates this augustian event are usually the recipients of widespread felicitation, and

Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of Charleroi, who are today observing their golden anniversary, are truly to be considered as among those doubly blessed.

Perhaps the greatest significance of Golden Wedding is its demonstration that marriage is not a failure, and that divorce, the social cancer that is eating the vitals out of our marriage, is as unnecessary as it is hideous. This worthy Charleroi couple has shown to the world that it is possible to reconcile whatever differences that may have arisen between them; to agree to disagree, and to talk hand in hand in loving companionship to the end of life. They are an incarnation of the sacredness of the marriage tie, the loosening of which would cause civilization to stagger backward, and to relapse into barbarism. This is the example of the thousands of other good men and women we see around us everywhere, whose loyalty to home and family keeps the social balance from swerving and makes life sweeter, prurer and nobler.

Here's greetings to Mr. and Mrs.

Devlin. May they continue to live together in loving companionship to celebrate many more returns of their wedding anniversary, and may their example of conjugal felicity for half a century impress upon the community that the sanctity of the marriage is one of the myriads of commands

Of course it is realized that heat records have to be broken every year but look what we are finally getting to.

The "Bible Students' convention" has come to the conclusion that there shouldn't be taught anything about the condition of "hell fire and brimstone for the torment of the wicked." Possibly they would feel infinitely more comfortable if they were dead certain there wasn't any such place.

A Connecticut representative suggests that as a platform the Ten Commandments be used by one of the parties. They would have the advantage of being more intelligible than the legally drafted affairs usually posing as such, but what an awful blow it would mean to the conceit of the legal profession.

There isn't much talk these days about the high cost of living. One reason is it takes too much trouble to talk and another is in this hot weather people are not so particular about their methods of existing.

One is compelled to admire the youthful energy which compelled many a self-made man to work 12 hours a day when in their teens but how much more can one admire the mature judgment which led them to stop it.

Some men not usually credited with doing anything for a rainy day are the most particular about their rain checks for the bull game.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Only six years from the time you started to work for a government building?" said George T. Stiles of the Stiles Construction company, in reply to a statement concerning the new postoffice building of which his company has the contract for building. "Why, that is a remarkably short time to wait. You people must have a pull. You surely have no kick coming, for you're getting a remarkably good building in a much shorter space of time than is usual for the construction of a government building. The people up there had a strenuous time with their building. They got to fighting over the site, and blood was actually shed in the matter. One man bought a lot in the proposed site which he refused to sell. It was condemned, but the man got a bunch of lumber-jacks, armed them, and defied the authorities. Another party armed a posse of lumber-jacks and proceeded to evict the squatters and a battle ensued. No one was killed but several were wounded.

"The long drawn out contest proved all the better for the town, as the appropriation was increased from time to time, and in the end they got a much better building than if it had been constructed in the ordinary course of time."

Speaking of the character of the work, and the reason why local contractors generally do not care to bid on it, Mr. Stiles said:

"This work is in a class by itself. There is so much red tape involved in it, and so many petty details to be watched, that a contractor virtually has to work into the business. A new contractor breaking in can usually make up his mind to get stung on his first contract, at least, before he learns the ropes. The architectural department in Washington is three years behind in its work, and this is the cause of the delay. That is the reason why no new appropriations are being granted at the present time. Then, too, the work is grouped in letting contracts so that the government inspectors can oversee the construction conveniently."

AMERICAN EMPRESS OF KOREA

Her Son Would Have Been Ruler But for Annexation of the Country by Japan.

The empress of Korea, who died recently, was born in Appleton, Wis., the daughter of a Methodist minister, a "circuit rider" who made Appleton his home for a few years before the war, says the New York Evening Post. The Rev. Mr. Brown was a handsome southerner, and his wife a woman of exceptional beauty, who transmitted her beauty to her daughter Emily, who was born in 1861. Shortly after the war, when Emily was about five years old, the family left Appleton; and ten years later the Rev. Mr. Brown took his wife and daughter to Seoul, the capital of Korea, and was said to have been the first Protestant missionary to enter the capital of the Hermit Kingdom. The young Appleton girl soon learned the language of the Koreans, and acted as interpreter in dealings between the missionaries and the government. She had a remarkably sweet voice and attracted many natives to her father's mission by her wonderful singing of hymns. The emperor heard of the remarkable beauty and wonderful voice of the American girl and commanded her to enter his harem, which she indignantly refused to do. Two years later, however, when the mission was in financial straits, she accepted the emperor's offer and became one of his wives, with a promise of marriage in her father's mission as soon as conditions permitted. When the American wife had borne the emperor a son and his queen had died, Emily Brown was proclaimed queen, the ruler of Korea then being a king, and when he proclaimed himself emperor she became empress, and received the name of Om, which, in the Korean language, means "Dawn of the Morning" or "As Beautiful as the Rising Sun." Emily Brown was the emperor's favorite wife, and her son was made the heir apparent, and but for the annexation of Korea by Japan, he would have become emperor on the death of the father.

Gave Tip on Hair Dressing.

The exhibit of the special school for truant and incorrigible boys at the child welfare exhibit has attracted much attention, and there are frequent inquiries concerning the boys themselves who have been greatly changed by their training in the school, says the Indianapolis News. The following story was told at the exhibit.

An "incorrigible youngster" who while in the public schools had caused nervous breakdowns and discouragement among the teachers, and who had gained for himself the name of "the worst boy in the city," approached an instructor of the special school and said:

"I wish to speak with you."

"All right," said the teacher.

"When, right now?"

"It is about your hair," said the boy, who seemed to have developed into something of an art critic. "They quit wearing rats down on Geisendorff."

Titanic Toilet.

Everything in Tolstoy's character, an eminent Russian writer says, attained Titanic proportions. "As a drinker he absorbed fantastic quantities of liquor. As a gambler, he terrified his partners by the boldness of his play. As a soldier he advanced gayly to Bastion 4, the bastion of death, at Sevastopol, and there he made dying men laugh at his witty sayings. He surpassed every one by his prodigious activity in sport as well as literature."

Novelist Was the Family Dunce.

Fanny Burney, one of the world's first woman writers, was called the "little dunce" by her parents because she seemed to know less than the other children in the family. She did not know the A B C's until she was nine years old. Her first novel, "Evelina" was written surreptitiously, and won her much fame.

The Ministerial Association of Canonsburg have decided upon a "slow schedule" for the latter half of July and August. This means that church services will be cut down during the heated period.

Gas Strike Causes Excitement

The striking of a good flow of gas in the well on the Frank Watson farm at Vanceville has caused considerable excitement in that section and as a result the Philadelphia, Carnegie and Monongahela Gas companies are trying to get hold of all the farms that are not under lease in that section.

Hay Good, Oats Poor.

The hay crop is reported to be good throughout the country, but the yield of oats is poor, not more than half the usual amount being realized per acre. The cool and wet weather during the early part of the season is the cause of the poor yield of oats.

Over at East Canonsburg, where a three-day lot sale started on Tuesday, souvenir spoons are given to all ladies in attendance. Daily band concerts are also a feature.

Oil Well a Good Stayer.

The Canonsburg oil field, which is composed chiefly of village lots and property, is not so productive as it was six months ago. The daily production, however, is still about 300 barrels. One of the most productive wells is that of the Canonsburg Steel and Iron company. Enlow No. 2, which has produced 60 barrels a day since last April.

To Build New Residence.

Homer Hill who lives near Beallsville has let the contract for a fine brick veneer residence to Joseph A. Wise of Beallsville. Mr. Hill will occupy the new residence himself.

Leases Up River Hotel.

Walter S. Bower of Fredericktown has leased his hotel and fixtures to A. E. Zwick of Pittsburg, for a period of five years. Zwick took charge July 1.

Only Half a Wheat Crop.

Farmers of the Chartiers valley find themselves in the position of the native interrogated by the "Arkansas Traveler," who when the latter remarked that his corn didn't look as though it would be more than half a crop, replied that he didn't expect more than that, as he had planted it on "sheers." Wheat harvesting is in full blast, but the yield is not expected to be more than half of what it usually is in more favorable seasons.

Evangelist Has Clear Field.

No preaching services will be held at any of the McDonald Protestant Evangelical churches on Sunday evenings during the months of July and August. Rev. Dr. A. Edwin Burrows, the evangelist will preach during this period in his tabernacle, which was erected for the occasion.

SEEMED A FOOLISH QUESTION

Refused to Bridgroom Resented Inquiry That at the Moment Seemed to Him ill-Timed.

One of the most widely known members of the Red Ink set got married some time ago, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. It was no new experience for him. In fact, he'd taken the bride two or three times before—each time falling at the water jump. To be explicit about it, he's a perfectly fine little poet, as long as he is elated to the cart. But when he begins to dabble with Old Man Red Eye, he becomes matrimonially and socially impossible. On the occasion of his latest marriage, he had been sober for quite a long while, a phenomenon due in part to the fact that he had been stone broke for an even longer while. And he had bound himself never, never to listen to a bubble.

"I think he meant it, too," said one of his friends. "Anyhow, he's been sober ever since which is an event that ranks with history's comet in infrequency. But the day of the marriage he needed a little brace. Knowing his falling, his friends would not give him any money. Neither would his bride-to-be, although she is simply laced with it. Our poor poet went around with his tongue cracking and warping in his mouth—drier than the covered bridge of holy writ. Suddenly it was discovered that the marriage license had not been procured. 'I'll get it,' volunteered the poor poet. 'Give me $5.'"

"He knew that the license cost but one. But no one else knew it. He got the license, and then he filled himself as full of budge as possible with $4 and an hour a half. When he walked up the church aisle he was bubbling—but long training kept him from betraying his condition. His bride-to-be got a sniff of what had happened to her $4, but it was too late to mend them. Our poor poet got along all right until the minister asked him very solemnly: 'Do you take this woman to be your wedded wife?'"

"Whereupon he looked at the preacher in amazement. 'Quit your joking, old top,' said he, in a loud, round tone. 'That's what I'm here for. I'm the original taking kid.'"

Valuable Counterfeits.

There are cases on record where counterfeit coins are worth more than the coin which they imitate. In former times platinum, which has about the same weight as gold, was worth only one-third as much. The counterfeit sawed the real coin into three sections, leaving both the obverse and the reverse sides untouched. The third part was taken out and platinum substituted for it. A little milking machine and some skillful soldering did the rest. The counterfeit was almost beyond detection, even to its ring. Since those days platinum has increased tremendously in value, and a coin counterfeited in this way is now worth more than the genuine.

PRESCRIPTION DID THE WORK

Doctor's Advice That at First Seemed Hard-Hearted Effected a Permanent Cure.

Dr. Stephen Smith, who was 85 years old on February 19, is one of New York's distinguished surgeons, and a founder of the first nurses' training school established in this country. He is also the originator of what he calls the "peanut cure" for tuberculosis. He used it with success long before fresh-air sanitariums and sleeping bags had come into vogue.

"I happened to invent the cure in this way," he said. "A rosy-cheeked, wholesome Irish girl brought her sister to my office and asked me what I could do for her. The sister was plain, sickly, and weak, and obviously had bad lungs.

"What do you do for a living?" I asked the girl with the red cheeks.

"I tend a corner peanut stand," she said.

"And what does your sister do?"

"Oh, she's too sickly to be outdoors; we don't let her work."

"Well, I said, 'you buy your sister a peanut stand and keep her outdoors. That's the only thing I can recommend.'"

"The two girls looked horrified and departed. I did not think anything more about the case until two years later, when two big healthy rosy-cheeked girls came to my office. I recognized one as the peanut stand keeper; the other I couldn't place. But she soon introduced herself as my old patient, the sickly sister of my rosy-cheeked visitor.

"And what have you been doing to yourself?" I asked.

"Keeping a peanut stand," she said.

Where Strength Is Needed.

It is one thing to "play the game" before applauding thousands, and quite another to do it in the ordinary quiet concerns of daily life.

Wooden Leg Joke.

Why is it, as a writer in the Bellman points out, that the general sense of humor is stirred when anything happens to a man's wooden leg, such as its loss or a knothole coming in it, or getting it under the cars? It is or was the same way with stealing a man's horse in the Far West. Both of these accidents are serious. Yet they are supposed to be subjects for mirth.—Minneapolis Journal

In Ancient Days.

The chimney corner was a favorite place for early settlers when they took their tobacco. Buckets were the chief reliance of the fire fighters. When an alarm was cried each citizen grabbed his buckets and ran to answer it. It couldn't respond in an instant he threw his buckets out his window, and his neighbor picked them up and carried them along.

Equity.

Owing to the increased cost of everything, the doughnut had become too valuable to eat. Accordingly it was being financed.

Naturally an enterprise of such magnitude was fraught with more or less uncertainty. "How, for instance," the underwriters asked, "about the hole—is it to be financed too?" So the courts were appealed to.

"The hole," these decided, after three or four years, "is the equity, and as such it may not be financed."

U. S. Doughnut fell off a point or two, but speedily recovered, because something had to be the equity anyway.—Puck.

Same Girl.

"Dad, I want to marry Tottie Twinkletons. I hope you won't blame me for wanting to marry a chame girl."

"Not at all, my boy. I wanted to marry her myself when I was about your age, and your grandfather was also engaged to her once."

TOUCHED THEIR SOFT HEART

In the Circumstances, Expressed Hope of Irish Youths Seemed Somewhat Humorous.

Supreme Court Justice Cobalan of New York, who is proud of his Irish blood, also believes that for keen wit and humor no race in the world equals the Irish. The justice spent the greater part of last summer on the "ould sod" and when he came home he had acquired a great fund of funny anecdotes illustrative of the often unconscious humor of the natives he met.

He tells a story of two husky lads who were tenants of the same landowner and who were constantly embroiled either with the man himself or one of his agents. At last things came to such a pass that the two decided to waylay their landlord. They chose a favorable spot along the road over which they knew the landlord must travel that afternoon and crouched in the ditch waiting. To beguile the time each told the other a part of the punishment he had devised for the landlord.

Said one, "O'll tap him on the head wid me blackthorn and whin he falls O'll step on his face an'—"

The other interrupted: "O! mane to cut off his ears, split his nose an' if he makes a fuss O'll slit his weaz-and."

They kept up the bloodthirsty conversation for some time and at last one noticed the day was almost done and that it was far past the time when the landlord might have been expected to pass. He interrupted his sanguinary threats to call the attention of his companion to the flight of time and the non-appearance of the man they expected, exclaiming:

"Och, the poor fellow, O! hope nothing's happened him!"

SET THE PACE IN RECEPTIONS

Splendid Affair Given by United States Ambassador Guild Dazzled St. Petersburg Society.

The German and Russian newspapers bristle with reports concerning an official reception by the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, Curtis Guild, in the splendid palace he occupies, which was formerly the residence of Count Orloff Denison. Not even Ambassador Leishman, glittering at the kaiser's court, could have been more imposing. The ambassador had at his side a functionary from the imperial court, who presented the guests. The ambassador's wife was beautifully gowned.

The guests were announced by a servant from the imperial ministry, who wore a black suit of eighteenth century style, with a lace jabot.

Mrs. Guild was greatly fatigued, for she had to stand three hours with outstretched hand in order that it might be kissed by all the men, according to the Russian fashion.

In the great dining hall on the floor above, hung with pictures of the Orloffs of the last three centuries, was a surprise for the guests. Instead of the usual tables with servants serving champagne, there were models in ice of a Russian farm house and an American cottage, lit with incandescent lights, from which flowed fountains of champagne. The American cottage fountain bubbled with dry wine, while the Russian emitted a fruity variety.

Real Eugene Aram.

A sale of relics of Eugene Aram reminds us that Lord Lytton's Aram was a very different personage from him who was hanged at York, who, judging from the published account of the trial, was merely a felon of the baser sort. He associated with low companions, married a low wife and practiced swindling with a miserable creature whom in his younger days he was associated with in stealing flower-roots—for they were both gardeners—and finally murdered him to secure a few pounds, the proceeds of a swindle.

Aram possessed a vigorous intellect, had mastered the learned languages, had read every classic that came in his way, and, says a distinguished writer, when the learned felon came to make his defense all Britain was astonished by a piece of pleading which, if given to the public among the defenses and under the name of Thomas Lord Erskine, so celebrated for this species of composition, would certainly not be deemed unworthy of the collection of the author.

Work For Kings.

The sphere of foreign affairs is one in which a British monarch, for all his complete subordination to constitutional forms, still exercises real power. Unlike the late king, who was his own traveling ambassador, and whose personage made him welcome in the capitals of Europe George V chooses to work through his ministers, but there is every reason to believe that the monarch's views will carry weight with the cabinet. Situated as he is above party, the king may readily work for international friendship and peace without being accused of betraying the country's interests.

Biggest Thing in the World.

"Fighting Bob" Evans said a naval veteran of Washington, "had the most fighters, a tender heart."

"Fighting Bob" had a specially tender heart toward children. I once heard him say, as he held his little grandchild's hand:

"A child is the biggest thing in the world. A ragged, emaciated, hungry child is to me bigger than a battleship."

Perforated Stamps.

Perforated sheets of postage stamps were unknown six decades ago. Until the year 1854 postage stamps were issued in sheets which the purchaser had to cut up in any way he found convenient. The perforating machine was invented by an Irishman named Archer. When it was submitted to the British government the treasury offered him $2,000 for his patent rights. As Archer had spent over four years in perfecting his machine, this offer was indignantly rejected. Eventually Archer was awarded $20,000.

Wonderful Sarah Bernhardt.

Sarah Bernhardt often has said it is her enthusiasm and continued interest in life and work to which she ascribes her youthful appearance. Now she has a new enthusiasm—the moving pictures. For years she refused to pose before the moving picture camera. Then she gave her consent and acted "Camille" before a long string of film recently in Paris. She could hardly restrain her eagerness to see the finished pictures, and when they were shown to her she insisted the whole play be repeated several times. Edmond Rostand accompanied her to the exhibition and when she had delightedly watched the films run off several times she turned to him with all the enthusiasm of a chorus girl, saying: "Now what next is there for me to do?"

GRAVE CAUSE FOR DISPUTE

Romanticists and Others Have Opportunity to Squabble Over This Happening.

The Winans will have upset the theory of the cynics that romance is dead in the world. Here is an innkeeper's daughter who receives a fortune of $500,000 just for being kind to an old man. In all her dreams of the future she never thought of being able to present to the Prince Charming that would eventually come along such a princely dower. She went about her work delivering the milk and cream from her father's dairy, little thinking that the old gentleman, who year after year was her father's guest, was all along planning to make her a rich heiress as a reward for her little kindnesses. The picture is idyllic. Unfortunately, some of the rightful heirs of the deceased multimillionaire fall to see the poetry of it and have already given notice of a contest. There is a son who has been cut off with a paltry $200,000 and there are two grandchildren who have been entirely forgotten. In the case of the son the will is particularly significant, since the relative smallness of the amount can be traced to the father's disapproval of a marriage that was wholly romantic. The cynics may still claim that their contention is supported by the courts.

THE PRIMER OF SUCCESS

Do you want a position?
Do you want a girl?
Do you want to rent your furnished room?
Do you want to sell your house?
Do you want to sell your eggs, poultry or live stock?

Have you lost anything?
Have you anything to trade?
Do you want to sell your piano?

There are many who want to do one or the other of these things. Most of them don't know how to go about it. If they could only tell the people what they want they would be all right. If they could only let the people know without disclosing their identity that might be better still.

If you want to buy, sell or secure any of the above, or if you want to trade anything, did it ever occur to you that the best thing in the world to do is to use the Classified Columns of the Mail.

Why do we give you this advice? To make business for ourselves? Certainly! To help you? Just as certainly! We are the medium between you and what you want. Life of the Grapevine.

There are some who contend that the life of the grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Play mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Hampton Court, England, planted in 1769, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shores of Mobile Bay, within a mile of Daphne, Ala., commonly known as the "General Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpinteria, Cal., under which more than eight hundred persons may stand. Its trunk is eight feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as ten tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1842.

Good Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "Is she justified in aiding or improving nature if she sees fit?" Many of our well-known medical men think that "make-up" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advise its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or blood less lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

THIRTEEN HITS; THIRTEEN RUNS

Christians Find Methodists Easy Picking in Church League Struggle

In a game that was long and gloomy for the Methodists and gay as a summer resort for the Christians the latter named team showed their ability to the fullest possible extent Tuesday evening. The score was 13 to 1. Archie Mason was on the firing line for the Christians and performed so nobly that the hard hitting M. E.'s could only locate four hits. The Christians secured a good wagon-load of bingles off the various emigrants who served for Riggs.

It would take too much time to relate how all the 13 scores came about. Principally it was through hitting. Only in the fifth did the Christians leave off scoring for a moment, but at that they came back stronger in the sixth with five tallies. The tally card of the Methodists showed one run in the fourth inning of a home run.

Fireman's Unique Wedding.

A fireman's wedding is a burnt-out chere is certainly something of a novelty. Such a wedding has just taken place in the church of St. George's, Leicester, the greater part of the building having been destroyed by fire last year. It was the first fireman's wedding in Leicester, and the bridegroom's colleague, formed a guard of honor and arranged an arch of axes, etc., under which the bride and bridegroom passed out after the ceremony. Fireman Sturges, the bridegroom, was among those who fought the flames at St. George's last October.—London Times

Dictionary Jokers.

The popular idea is that dictionary makers are about as infallible as makers of literature can be, and yet from the earliest times the mistakes of the lexicographers have furnished amusement. In our day the Century Dictionary has been supposed to be about the last word in such compilations, and yet it has been pointed out that one joke on the Century occurs under the heading "Question, to pop the. See Pop," which may be excellent advice, but raises a laugh, nevertheless. When the Forty Immortals were engaged in making the dictionary of the French academy the word "crab" came up for a gloss; they were about agreed to define it as "a little red fish that walks backward" when Furetiere pointed out that it was no doubt a good definition, save for the fact that the animal is not a fish. It is not red until it is boiled, and it does not walk backward.

Charleroi Edifice is to be Exceptionally Substantial

COMPLIMENT TO TOWN

In Architecture and Design
Superior to those in Many
Larger Cities

"In quality and in design the Charleroi building will be the best government building that I have bid on for two years," said George W. Stiles of the Stiles Construction company Tuesday in speaking of the edifice upon which he is today making a start. "The building will be far above the average for towns somewhat larger than Charleroi," he stated.

Mr. Stiles is an experienced government contractor and knows whereof he speaks. At the present time he has the contract for constructing five edifices similar to that here. He states that the Charleroi edifice will be costlier than government buildings usually are for towns this size.

"The Charleroi building will not, strictly speaking, be a two story structure," Mr. Stiles said. "It will contain a mezzanine floor about which will be grouped offices. Every part of the work will be thorough."

"It is the custom now of the Treasury Department which has charge of the construction of public buildings to group a number of buildings for one architect to oversee. That isn't quite as good as having a man on the job for every one, but it is much cheaper. An architect will visit here about every two weeks."

"There will be practically no excavation for the Charleroi building, rather a fill will be necessary to raise the basement to the proper height. This work the company of course will do itself. I will be here this week and a part of next perhaps before my superintendent of construction will arrive. Part of my attention will be engaged at a building in Missouri which we started not long ago."

Mr. Stiles mentioned something about the excellent site which had been selected for the Charleroi building and compared it to others with which he had experience. He is much pleased with the building prospect here and indicated that he would like to remain himself to oversee the work.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of McKean Avenue
Have Lived Together for Fifty Years--
Were Married in Pittsburgh

"What see I now? The night is fair,
The storm of grief, the clouds of care,
The wind, the rain, have passed away;
The lamps are lit, the fires burn bright,
The house is full of life and light;
It is the Golden Wedding day."

O fortunat, O happy day!
The people sing, the people say,
The ancient bridegroom and the bride,
Smiling contented and serene

Upon the intimate bewitching scene,
Behold, well pleased, on every side,
Their forms and features multiplied."

—Longfellow

With a solemn high mass at 8 o'clock at St. Jerome's church of which they are communicants, Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of 513 McKean avenue began the celebration of their Golden Wedding today—the first event of this kind, so far as known, that ever took place in Charleroi.

The service was attended by a large concourse of people, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Devlin, in addition to the children, grandchildren and relatives of the couple, who participated in the communion. The party was conveyed to the church in beautifully decorated automobiles, one of which contained the children. At the service six little girls in white, wearing floral wreaths—grandchildren—officiated as flower girls. These were headed by Misses Edna Welsh of Homestead and Francis Flood of Charleroi. Four little boys in white—also grandchildren—served as escorts. The service was most solemn and impressive, and Rev. W. D. Fries pastor of St. Jerome's church, preached an eloquent and touching sermon upon the felicitous event.

After breaking their fast at the residence, the party repaired to Eldora Park, where the wedding breakfast proper was served. This was a most sumptuous repast, where peace, plenty and happiness were personified in the gay spirits of the company. The day is being spent in a pleasurable family reunion, and the event marks a red letter day in the annals of the Devlin family, which is represented by three generations.

Just 50 years ago this morning Mr. and Mrs. Devlin were wedded. Their troth was plighted at St. John's church on Fourteenth street on the South Side, Pittsburgh. Margaret Shedden was the maiden name of the bride. Since their wedding day the couple has only lived in three places, Pittsburgh, Allentown and Charleroi.

Mrs. Devlin, the former Miss Margaret Shedden, was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, being brought to Pittsburgh when she was but a six-year old tot. Her husband was born in County Down, Ireland, but was brought to America when he was only two years old. When he was old enough he began his life work, that of a glass worker.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Devlin resided in Pittsburgh. They lived on the Southside for 25 years. Then they moved to Allentown where they made their home for about six years coming to Charleroi to be numbered among the pioneers of the "Magic City."

Mr. Devlin secured employment at one of the glass plants when he brought his wife here 18 years ago, but he worked only two years before he was forced by failing health to give up that strenuous employment. At the present time the couple, as happy as on their wedding day, and with the same affection for each other, conduct a modest little store at 513 McKean avenue. This neat establishment is an attractive place, where children like to visit and older folks delight to stop and rest as they exchange the greetings of the day with charming Mother Devlin, who alert and up-to-date, is the gracious manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Devlin have six children living, and 21 grand children. James Devlin, the oldest son lives at Toronto, Ohio. He has six children. Margaret, now Mrs. Stephen West lives at West Homestead, having three children. Elia, known in the present day as Mrs. Joseph Flood and her eight children live in Charleroi. Mrs. James O'Hearn, known as Mary, lives next door to her parent's home and Charles and William are at home.

The group is an interesting one. Not for 12 years has there been any photograph taken of the family circle. The circle has been much enlarged since then. A picture will be taken at Eldora Park today in which it is hoped will be included every member of the family.

In addition to the sons and daughters of the worthy couple and their wives, husbands and children the company includes Mrs. Devlin's sister, Mrs. J. D. Jones of Munhall, who is the only living member of the former's family. Mrs. Jones is also represented at the gathering—by three generations, her daughter, Mrs. Annie Clark of Munhall, and her daughter Stella. Others present are Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Roberts and daughter of Belle Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. John N. Jones of Homestead, who are also relatives. Mrs. Andrew N. Keifer, of Pittsburgh, a former resident of Charleroi and near neighbor of the Devlin family while living here is also present.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Devlin are in good health and spirits. Mr. Devlin is 74 years old and Mrs. Devlin is 67. Both take a lively interest in affairs, and both are highly regarded by a wide circle of friends. Coming to Charleroi in the pioneer days of the town, they are widely known and Mr. Devlin ranks as one of the substantial citizens of the town who is always depended upon to support men and measure that stand for the progressive advancement of Charleroi. In politics he is a Democrat of the old school and sneers by the Pittsburgh Post, which he has taken continuously for the whole 50 years of his wedded life.

While the Golden Wedding celebration is a family affair, many outside friends are extending greetings and the whole community unites in wishing the worthy couple many more happy returns of the day.

The second day's session of the South Pittsburgh district A. M. E. Sunday School association and the Allen Endeavor league was held today at St. James' A. M. E. church. This morning, James Dungee, of Washington conducted devotional service, and reports of Endeavor leagues were heard. Miss Bertha McShaw, of Braddock gave a paper, "The Need of a League in Each Church." Miss Foster Nealey, of Donora conducted a discussion. This afternoon's session opened by devotional services conducted by Rev. B. Whelan. The rest of the program consists of a paper, "Opportunity and Responsibility of League Work," Miss Armetta Banks; discussion led by Miss Helen Curry, of Uniontown; a paper "Do our pastors take as great interest in our league work as they should?" Edward Carter, Monessen; discussion led by William Green, West

Newton; paper, "Benefits derived from the Endeavor," Miss Bersie Robinson, of Pittsburgh; discussion led by Joseph Brooks, of West Middletown; solo, Miss Olga Mills, Connellsville. A paper by Charles Lannon of Brownsville and one by Prof. T. H. Brown of Vandergrift will feature this evening's program. Today's session is known as the Allen Endeavor League session.

Tuesday afternoon the addresses of welcome and response were given, the latter by Samuel Brooks of Washington and Rev. J. E. Morris of Braddock. Rev. R. H. Bumery of Pittsburgh made his annual address in which he outlined the work of a successful Sunday school teacher. He said they needed to be consecrated, faithful, punctual, and to have a desire for the work. Rev. F. A. Richards of the Charleroi First Methodist Episcopal church made an address as the closing feature.

SAYS GAME WAS NOT FORFEITED

Manager J. K. Rickey of the Catholic team of the Church league states that the game Monday with the Lutherans was not forfeited as stated. Ordinarily the game would be forfeited, as the Lutherans did not appear on the field with a full team in uniform, but on this occasion Manager Rickey put up the proposition that the Lutherans pick a team from wherever they pleased and that if they beat the Catholics the game would stand as a regular one, and vice versa. Under this arrangement the game was pulled off, Manager Rickey kindly loaning the Lutherans the use of two of his own players. The latter states that his team does not want any games by forfeit, but desires to contest for each and every one played.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING.

In the social life of a community, the wedding appeal more strongly to human sympathy than a Golden Wedding. Fifty years of wedded life is no rare, that any person can count on his fingers; all that have ever come under his own personal observation. The couple who celebrates this auspicious event are usually the recipients of widespread felicitation, and Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of Charlevoix, who are today observing their golden anniversary, are truly to be considered as among those doubly blessed.

Perhaps the greatest significance of a Golden Wedding is its demonstration that marriage is not a failure, and that divorce, the social cancer that is eating the vitals out of our nation, is as unnecessary as it is hideous. This worthy Charlevoix couple has shown to the world that it is possible to reconcile whatever differences that may have arisen between them, to agree to disagree, and to walk hand in hand in loving companionship to the end of life. They are an incarnation of the sacredness of the marriage tie, the loosening of which would cause civilization to stagger backward, and to relapse into barbarism. This is the example of the thousands of other good men and women we see around us everywhere, whose loyalty to home and family keeps the social balance from swerving and makes life sweeter, purer and nobler.

Here's greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Devlin. May they continue to live together in loving companionship to celebrate many more returns of their wedding anniversary, and may their example of conjugal felicity for half a century impress upon the community that the sanctity of the marriage is one of the inviolate commands of God.

INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY.

Western Pennsylvania's leading industries have had a good year's business with good prospects of another provided the Democrats don't try to reform the world at once by abolishing the tariff and annihilating the trusts on the ground that there is no need in either of them, says the Connellsville Courier.

There isn't much talk these days about the high cost of living. One reason is it takes too much trouble to talk and another is in this hot weather people are not so particular about their methods of existing.

One is compelled to admire the youthful energy which compelled many a self-made man to work 12 hours a day when in their teens but how much more can one admire the mature judgment which led them to stop it.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Only six years from the time you started to work for a government building?" said George W. Stiles of the Stiles Construction Company, in reply to a statement concerning the new postoffice building of which his company has the contract for building, "why, that is a remarkably short time to wait. You people must have a pull. You surely have no kick coming, for you're getting a remarkably good building in a much shorter space of time than it usually, for the construction of a government building strings out interminably from the time the appropriations are first granted until the contracts are let and work actually begins."

"As an illustration of this, our company finished up a government building at Eau Claire, up in Wisconsin, for which the first appropriation had been granted 16 years previously. The people up there had a strenuous time with their building. They got to fighting over the site, and blood was actually shed in the matter. One man bought a lot in the proposed site which he refused to sell. It was condemned, but the man got a bunch of lumberjacks, armed them, and defied the authorities. Another party armed a posse of lumberjacks and proceeded to evict the squatters and a battle ensued. No one was killed but several were wounded.

"The long drawn out contest proved all the better for the town, as the appropriation was increased from time to time, and in the end they got a much better building than if it had been constructed in the ordinary course of time."

Speaking of the character of the work, and the reason why local contractors generally do not care to bid on it, Mr. Stiles said:

"This work is in a class by itself. There is so much red tape involved in it, and so many petty details to be watched, that a contractor virtually has to work into the business. A new contractor breaking in can usually make up his mind to get stung on his first contract, at least, before he learns the ropes. The architectural department in Washington is three years behind in its work, and this is the cause of the delay. That is the reason why no new appropriations are being granted at the present time. Then, too the work is grouped in letting contracts so that the government inspectors can oversee the construction conveniently."

AMERICAN EMPRESS OF KOREA

Her Son Would Have Been Ruler But for Annexation of the Country by Japan.

The empress of Korea, who died recently was born in England. The daughter of a Methodist minister, a "circuit rider" who made Appleton his home for a few years before the war, says the New York Evening Post. The Rev. Mr. Brown was a handsome southerner, and his wife a woman of exceptional beauty, who transmitted her beauty to her daughter Emily, who was born in 1881. Shortly after the war, when Emily was about five years old, the family left Appleton; and ten years later the Rev. Mr. Brown took his wife and daughter to Seoul, the capital of Korea, and was said to have been the first Protestant missionary to enter the capital of the Hermit Kingdom. The young Appleton girl soon learned the language of the Koreans, and acted as interpreter in dealings between the missionaries and the government. She had a remarkably sweet voice and attracted many natives to her father's mission by her wonderful singing of hymns. The emperor heard of the remarkable beauty and wonderful voice of the American girl and commanded her to enter his harem, which she indignantly refused to do. Two years later, however, when the mission was in financial straits, she accepted the emperor's offer and became one of his wives, with a promise of marriage in her father's mission as soon as conditions permitted. When the American wife had borne the emperor a son and his queen had died, Emily Brown was proclaimed queen, the ruler of Korea then being a king, and when he proclaimed himself emperor she became empress, and received the name of Om, which, in the Korean language, means "Queen of the Morning" or "As Beautiful as the Rising Sun." Emily Brown was the emperor's favorite wife, and her son was made the heir apparent, and but for the annexation of Korea by Japan, he would have become emperor on the death of the father.

Give Tip on Hair Dressing.

The exhibit of the special school for transient and incorrigible boys at the child welfare exhibit has attracted much attention, and there are frequent inquiries concerning the boys themselves who have been greatly changed by their training in the school, says the Indianapolis News. The following story was told at the exhibit.

An incorrigible youngster, who while in the public schools had caused nervous breakdowns and discouragement among the teachers, and who had gained for himself the name of "the worst boy in the city," approached an instructor of the special school and said:

"I wish to speak with you."
"All right," said the teacher.
"When, about now?"
"It is about your hair," said the boy, who seemed to have developed into something of an art critic. "They quit wearing rats down on Geisendorf."

Titanic Tolstoi.

Everything in Tolstoi's character, an eminent Russian writer says, attained Titanic proportions. "As a drinker he absorbed fantastic quantities of liquor. As a gambler, he terrified his partners by the boldness of his play. As a soldier he advanced gayly to Bastogne, the bastion of death, at Semastopol, and there he made dying men laugh at his witty sayings. He surpassed every one by his prodigious activity in sport as well as literature."

SEEMED A FOOLISH QUESTION

Befuddled bridegroom suggested inquiry that at the moment seemed to him ill-timed.

One of the most widely known members of the Red Hot set got married some time ago, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. It was no new experience for him. In fact, he'd taken the hurdle two or three times before—each time falling at the water jump. To be explicit about it, he's a perfectly fine little poet, as long as he is elated to the cart. But when he begins to dabble with Old Man Red Eye, he becomes matrimonially and socially impossible. On the occasion of his latest marriage, he had been sober for quite a long while, a phenomenon due in part to the fact that he had been stone broke for an even longer while. And he had bound himself never, never to listen to a bubble.

"I think he meant it, too," said one of his friends. "Anyhow, he's been sober ever since, which is an event that ranks with Haller's comet in infrequency. But the day of the marriage he needed a little brace. Knowing his falling, his friends would not give him any money. Neither would his bride-to-be, although she is simply laced with it. Our poor poet went around with his tongue cracking and warping in his mouth—drier than the covered bridge of holy writ. Suddenly it was discovered that the marriage license had not been procured. 'I'll get it,' volunteered the poor poet. 'Give me $5.'

"He knew that the license cost but one. But no one else knew it. He got the license, and then he filled himself as full of booze as possible with $4 and an hour a half. When he walked up the church aisle he was bubbling—but long trailing kept him from betraying his condition. His bride-to-be got a sniff of what had happened to her $4, but it was too late to mend them. Our poor poet got along all right until the minister asked him very solemnly: 'Do you take this woman to be your wedded wife?'

"Whereupon he looked at the preacher in amazement. 'Quit your joking, old top,' said he, in a loud, round tone. 'That's what I'm here for. I'm the original taking kid.'

Valuable Counterfeits.

There are cases on record where counterfeited coins are worth more than the coins which they imitate. In former times platinum, which has about the same weight as gold, was worth only one-third as much. The counterfeiter sawed the real coin into three sections, leaving both the obverse and the reverse sides untouched. The third part was taken out and platinum substituted for it. A little milling machine and some skillful soldering did the rest. The counterfeiter was almost beyond detection, even to its ring. Since those days platinum has increased tremendously in value, and a coin counterfeited in this way is now worth more than the genuine.

Wheat harvesting is in full blast, but the yield is not expected to be more than half of what it usually is in more favorable seasons.

TOO REMARKABLE TO FALL

Ruined Old Barn Set Mose an Example and He Proceeded to Set Well.

In their first walk of the season at Woodbrook-in-the-Hills the judge and his wife stopped at the Bartons' to inquire for Mose, who was reported to have been "more'n common allin', long back." They found Mrs. Barton in the garden, weeding. "Yes, he was awful bad all last winter," she said, gradually rising, and straightening up. "First he had gripe, an' that left his heart weak, an' long toward March his liver kind o' got out o' whack. Then Mose sent for doctor, an' he called it 'complication o' diseases.'

"'You're a sick man,' says doctor. 'I know that,' says Mose, 'thout you're tellin' me! You know his way! But this complication, 's you call it, is what stumps me. I guess I'd better get well—an' he did!'"

"'Suthin' in that, eh, squire?' said Mose, suddenly appearing from behind the house. "Mush!" asserted the judge. "Didn't find my argument in a book, same as you would, squire," Mose continued. "Got it up on the hills, from the old Collins' barn—'member it?'"

"I should say I did!" said the judge, smiling reminiscently; "rootless, practically and open on all sides!" "But kep' a-staddin' for nigh thirty year 'cause it was so ramshackle it didn't know which way to fall. My case exactly!" declared Mose Marton, with a twinkle.—Youth's Companion.

Finance Has No Boundaries.

Finance nowadays is limited by no national boundaries. The loan, amounting to about $45,000,000, is apportioned between New York, London and Paris.

PRESCRIPTION DID THE WORK

Doctor's Advice That at First Stopped Hard-Hearted Effect of a Passionate Case.

Mr. Stephen Smith, who was 70 years old on February 19, is one of New York's distinguished surgeons, and a founder of the first surgical training school established in this country. He is also the originator of what he calls the "peanut cure" for tuberculosis. He used it with success long before fresh-air sanitariums and sleeping bags had come into vogue.

"I happened to invent the cure in this way," he said. "A rosy-cheeked, wholesome Irish girl brought her sister to my office and asked me what I could do for her. The sister was plain, sickly, and weak, and obviously had bad lungs.

"What do you do for a living?" I asked the girl with the red cheeks.

"Tend a corner peanut stand," she said.

"And what does your sister do?"

"Oh, she's too sickly to be outdoors; we don't let her work."

"Well, I said, 'you buy your sister a peanut stand and keep her outdoors. That's the only thing I can recommend.'"

"The two girls looked horrified and departed. I did not think anything more about the case until two years later, when two big healthy rosy-cheeked girls came to my office. I recognized one as the peanut stand keeper; the other I couldn't place. But she soon introduced herself as my old patient, the sickly sister of my rosy-cheeked visitor.

"And what have you been doing to yourself?" I asked.

"Keeping a peanut stand," she said.

Where Strength Is Needed.

It is one thing to "play the game" before applauding thousands, and quite another to do it in the ordinary quiet concerns of daily life.

Wooden Leg Joke.

Why is it, as a writer in the Ballman points out, that the general sense of humor is stirred when anything happens to a man's wooden leg, such as its loss or a knothole coming in it, or getting it under the car? It is or was the same way with stealing a man's horse in the Far West. Both of these accidents are serious. Yet they are supposed to be subjects for mirth.—Minneapolis Journal.

In Ancient Days.

The chimney corner was a favorite place for early settlers when they took their tobacco. Buckets were the chief reliance of the fire fighters. When an alarm was cried each citizen grabbed his buckets and ran to answer it. If he couldn't respond in an instant he threw his buckets out his window, and his neighbor picked them up and carried them along.

Equity.

Owing to the increased cost of everything, the doughnut had become too valuable to eat. Accordingly it was being financed.

Naturally an enterprise of such magnitude was fraught with more or less uncertainty. "How, for instance," the underwriters asked, "about the hole-is it to be financed, too?" So the courts were appealed to.

"The hole," these decided, after three or four years, "is the equity, and as such it may not be financed."

TOUCHED THEIR SOFT HEART

In the Circumstances, Expressed Hope of Irish Youths Seemed Somewhat Humorous.

Supreme Court Justice Coghlan of New York, who is proud of his Irish blood, also believes that for keen wit and humor no race in the world equals the Irish. The justice spent the greater part of last summer on the "gold sod" and when he came home he had acquired a great fund of funny anecdotes illustrative of the often unconscious humor of the natives he met.

He tells a story of two husky lads who were tenants of the same landowner and who were constantly embroiled either with the man himself or one of his agents. At last things came to such a pass that the two decided to waylay their landlord. They chose a favorable spot along the road over which they knew the landlord must travel that afternoon and crouched in the ditch waiting. To beguile the time each told the other a part of the punishment he had devised for the landlord.

Said one, "O'ill tap him on the head wid me blackthorn and whin he falls O'ill step on his face an'—"

The other interrupted: "O' mane to cut off his ears, split his nose an' if he makes a fuss O'ill slit his weazand."

They kept up the bloodthirsty conversation for some time and at last one noticed the day was almost done and that it was far past the time when the landlord might have been expected to pass. He interrupted his san-guinary threats to call the attention of his companion to the flight of time and the non-appearance of the man they expected, exclaiming:

"Och, the poor fellow, O' hope nothin's happened him!"

SET THE PACE IN RECEPTIONS

Splendid Affair Given by United States
Ambassador Guild Dazzled St.
Petersburg Society.

The German and Russian newspapers bristle with reports concerning an official reception by the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, Curtis Gulld, in the splendid palace he occupies, which was formerly the residence of Count Orloff Demison. Not even Ambassador Leishman, glittering at the kaiser's court, could have been more imposing. The ambassador had at his side a functionary from the Imperial court, who presented the guests. The ambassador's wife was beautifully gowned.

The guests were announced by a servant from the Imperial ministry, who wore a black suit of eighteenth century style, with a lace jabot.

Mrs. Gulld was greatly fatigued, for she had to stand three hours with outstretched hand in order that it might be kissed by all the men, according to the Russian fashion.

In the great dining hall on the floor above, hung with pictures of the Orloffs of the last three centuries, was a surprise for the guests. Instead of the usual tables with servants serving champagne, there were models in ice of a Russian farm house and an American cottage, lit with incandescent lights, from which flowed fountains of champagne. The American cottage fountain bubbled with dry wine, while the Russian emitted a fruity variety.

Real Eugene Aram.

A sale of relics of Eugene Aram reminds us that Lord Lytton's Aram was a very different personage from him who was hanged at York, who, judging from the published account of the trial, was merely a felon of the baser sort. He associated with low companions, married a low wife and practiced swindling with a miserable creature whom in his younger days he was associated with in stealing flower-roots—for they were both gardeners—and finally murdered him to secure a few pounds, the proceeds of a swindle.

Aram possessed a vigorous intellect, had mastered the learned languages, had read every classic that came in his way, and, says a distinguished writer, when the learned felon came to make his defense all Britain was astonished by a piece of pleading which, if given to the public among the defenses and under the name of Thomas Lord Erskine, so celebrated for this species of composition, would certainly not be deemed unworthy of the collection of its author.

Work For Kings.

The sphere of foreign affairs is one in which a British monarch, for all his complete subordination to constitutional forms, still exercises real power.
Unlike the late king, who was his own traveling ambassador, and whose personality made him welcome in the capitals of Europe, George V. chooses to work through his ministers, but there is every reason to believe that the monarch's views will carry weight with the cabinet. Situated as he is above party, the king may readily work for international friendship and peace without being accused of betraying the country's interests.

Success, Traps in the World.

"Fighting Bob" Evans, said a naval veteran of Washington, "had, like most fighters, a tender heart."

"Fighting Bob" had a specially tender heart toward children. I once heard him say, as he held his little grandchild's hand:

"A child is the biggest thing in the world. A ragged, emaciated, hungry child is no bigger than a battleship."

Perforated Stamps.

Perforated sheets of postage stamps were unknown six decades ago. Until the year 1854 postage stamps were issued in sheets which the purchaser had to cut up in any way he found convenient. The perforating machine was invented by an Irishman named Archer. When it was submitted to the British government the treasury offered him $3,000 for his patent rights. As Archer had spent over four years in perfecting his machine, this offer was indignantly rejected. Eventually Archer was awarded $20,000.

Wonderful Sarah Bernhardt.
Sarah Bernhardt often has said it is her enthusiasm and continued interest in life and work to which she ascribes her youthful appearance. Now she has a new enthusiasm—the moving pictures. For years she refused to pose before the moving picture camera. Then she gave her consent and acted "Camille" before a long string of film recently in Paris. She could hardly restrain her eagerness to see the finished pictures, and when they were shown to her she insisted the whole play be repeated several times.
Edmond Rostand accompanied her to the box of the cinema where she had slightly watched the films run off several times she turned to him with all the enthusiasm of a chorus girl, saying "Now what next is there for me to do?"

Mystery in History.

From whence came the Toltecs, the Aztecs and Mayas who lived in America, even before the Indian, has never been determined definitely. It is presumed that they came to this country from Asia when a strait connected that country with Alaska.

To Conserve Our Sight.

Electric lights are said to be much easier on the eyes than the gas ones.
Scientists also say that it is better for the eyes if the lights in the modern buildings are entirely hidden and we get our illumination by reflected light.

Good Meals at Camp Comfort

The boys at Camp Comfort are using the same stove that they had last year.
It was the best they could get. It was a

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

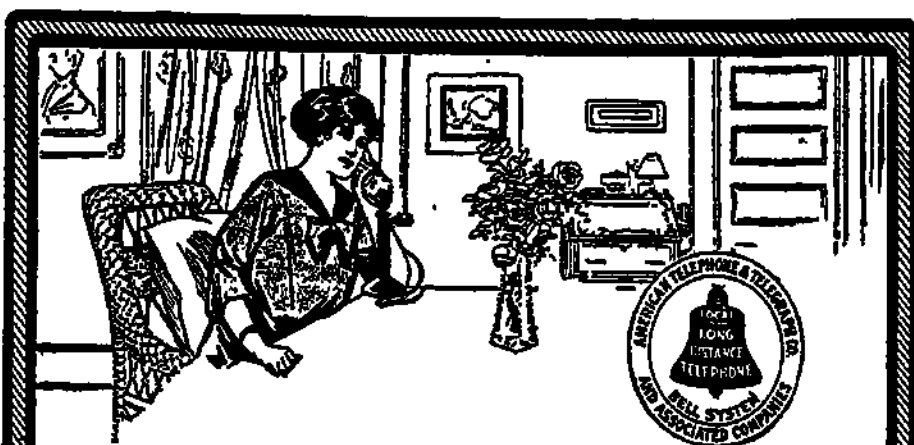

This year they got a New Perfection Oven
Also a New Perfection Toaster
Also a New Perfection Broiler

"See, what a difference in the meals a good stove makes," said one of the boys. So they called their shack "Camp Comfort." And they will tell their mothers and wives about the stove, too. For the New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is as convenient for the home as for the camp. It will bake, broil, roast and toast as well as a regular coal range.

He Wouldn't Advertise

Breathes there a man, with soul so dead.

Who never to himself hath said:

"My trade of late is getting bad,

I'll try another eight-inch ad."

If such there be, go mark him well;

For him no bank account shall swell,

No angels watch the golden stair

To welcome home the millionaire

The man who never asks for trade

By local line or ad. displayed.

Cares more for rest than worldly gain,

And patronage but gives him pain,

Tread lightly friends; let no rude sound

Disturb his solitude profound.

Here let him live in calm repose,

Unsought except by men he owes

And when he dies, go plant him deep,

That naught may break his dreamless sleep;

Where no rude clamor may dispel

The quiet that he loved so well.

And when the world may know its loss,

Place on his grave a wreath of moss,

And on the stone above, "Here lies

A chump who wouldn't advertise."

Advertise and the world is with you!

Don't and you'll be alone.

For the world today will never pay

A Cent to the Great Unknown.

GRAVE CAUSE FOR DISPUTE

Romanticists and Others Have Opportunity to Squabble Over This Happening.

The Winans will has upset the theory of the cynics that romance is dead in the world. Here is an innkeeper's daughter who receives a fortune of $500,000 just for being kind to an old man. In all her dreams of the future she never thought of being able to present to the Prince charming that would eventually come along such a princely dowry. She went about her work delivering the milk and cream from her father's dairy, little thinking that the old gentleman, who year after year was her father's guest, was all along planning to make her a rich heiress as a reward for her little kindnesses. The picture is idyllic.
Unfortunately, some of the rightful heirs of the deceased multimillionaire fail to see the poetry of it and have already given notice of a contest.

There is a son who has been cut off with a paltry $200,000 and there are two grandchildren who have been entirely forgotten. In the case of the son the will is particularly significant since the relative smallness of the amount can be traced to the father's disapproval of a marriage that was wholly romantic. The cynics may still claim that their contention is supported by the courts.

THE PRIMER OF SUCCESS

Do you want a position?
Do you want a girl?
Do you want to rent your furnished room?
Do you want to sell your house?
Do you want to sell your eggs, poultry or live stock?
Have you lost anything?
Have you anything to trade?
Do you want to sell your piano?

There are many who want to do one or the other of these things. Most of them don't know how to go about it. If they could only tell the people what they want they would be all right.
If they could only let the people know without disclosing their identity that might be better still.

If you want to buy, sell or secure any of the above, or if you want to trade anything, did it ever occur to you that the best thing in the world to do is to use the Classified Columns of the Mail.

Why do we give you this advice? To make business for ourselves? Certainly! To help you?
Just as certainly! We are the medium between you and what you want. You just place a cent-a-word advertisement with us and we spread this advertisement before Five Thousand People.

Every Day. That is the market with which we bring you into touch. Isn't the advantage of being placed in touch with 5,000 people worth this insignificant sum?

Homestead in Line.

From the agitation started by Charleroi in regard to a curb market, Homestead is now in line. A curb market has been established there and is said to be well patronized.

Life of the Grapevine.

There are some who contend that the life of the grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Pliny mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Tampton Court, England, planted in 1769, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shores of Mobile Bay, within a mile of Daphne, Ala., commonly known as the "General Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpinteria, Cal., under which more than eight hundred persons may stand. Its trunk is eight feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as 10 tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1842.

Good Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "Is she justified in using or improving nature if she sees fit?" Many of our well known medical men think that "make-up" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advise its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or blood less lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

THIRTEEN HITS: THIRTEEN RUNS

Christians Find Methodists Easy Picking in Church League Struggle

In a game that was long and gloomy for the Methodists and gay as a summer resort for the Christians the latter named team showed their ability to the fullest possible extent Tuesday evening. The score was 13 to 1. Archie Mason was on the firing line for the Christians and performed so nobly that the hard hitting M. E.'s could only locate four hits. The Christians secured a good wagon-load of bingles off the various emment's who served for Riggs.

It would take too much time to relate how all the 13 scores came about. Principally it was through hitting. Only in the fifth did the Christians score off anyone for a moment but at that they came back stronger in the sixth with five tallies. The tally card of the Methodists showed one run in the fourth inning of a home run.

Fireman's Unique Wedding.

A fireman's wedding in a burnt-out church is certainly something of a novelty. Such a wedding has just taken place in the church of St. George's, Leicester, the greater part of the building having been destroyed by fire last year. It was the first fireman's wedding in Leicester, and the bridegroom's colleague, formed a guard of honor and arranged an arch of axes, etc., under which the bride and bridegroom passed out after the ceremony. Fireman Sturges, the bridegroom, was Dictionary Jokers.

The popular idea is that dictionary makers are about as infallible as makers of literature can be, and yet from the earliest times the mistakes of the lexicographers have furnished amusement. In our day the Century Dictionary has been supposed to be about the last word in such compilations, and yet it has been pointed out that one joke on the Century occurs under the heading "Question, to pop the. See Pop," which may be excellent advice, but raises a laugh, nevertheless. When the Fortiv Immortals were engaged in making the dictionary of the French academy the word "crab" came up for a gloss; they were about agreed to define it as "a little red fish that walks backward" when Furetiere pointed out that it was no doubt a good definition, save for the fact that the animal is not a fish, it is not red until it is boiled, and it does not walk backward.
